In 2003, Katharina Wilck founded 1001 Gewürze together with her mother, cookery book author Bettina Matthaei. The mission: to show what really good spices can do. Since then, only the best raw materials have been produced by hand in small batches in Hamburg-Barmbek. Without salt and sugar, but with a lot of expertise and passion.

1001 has always adhered to this quality philosophy with endearing Hanseatic stubbornness - and has thus been able to clearly position itself in the premium segment in what has become a highly competitive market. The product line launched in 2023 is available in organic quality and in a sustainable, purely plant-based tin. The focus is on product and concept development for a wide range of customers, such as the catering industry, companies and producers of high-quality food.
