PRODUCTS:

customer-specific enzyme systems for many different branches of the food industry

SternEnzym develops customer-specific enzyme systems for many different branches of the food industry.

SternEnzym can always find an individual solution for each customer, for the most diverse products and process conditions. Our services extend from individual consulting to applications trials to assistance with trials at the customer site.

As a subsidiary of the independent, owner-operated Stern-Wywiol Gruppe, SternEnzym has access to the knowledge of some 150 R&D specialists and the extensive applications technology and testing resources of the Group's large Stern Technology Center in Ahrensburg, Germany. Customers benefit from the dedication, creativity and flexibility of our technology team, as well as the collaborations we maintain with universities and other research institutions.
